Senior Class

P.S. Jones High School

Washington, North Carolina

Foreword

The challenge of success is by far the most exacting situation to which high school students are asked to respond. The years spent here at P. S. Jones have made us realize our assets, capabilities, and our weaknesses.

As seniors, we have tried to preserve the joys, the sorrows, the hopes, the anxieties, the achievements, and the failures by portraying the academic, social, and cultural life of the school in order that we may be forever reminded of the preparation we have received here at P. S. Jones High School.

Alma Mater

By Albert E. Williams

Hail to our school, it is the finest in our dear land.
We'll be ever true and for her always we'll take our stand
And when our work and play here must end,
We'll carry the banner onward with us.
Because we will forever love thee our dear ole P. S. Jones High School.
We look to thee to be forever our constant guide.
For P. S. Jones High School our hearts will always swell with pride.

Dedication

The annual staff takes pride in dedicating the 1968 JOHISCO Yearbook to Miss Evelyn M. Evans, a teacher who has faithfully served the school for many years.

To sit in her classroom was a privilege because one found there an atmosphere of dignity and discipline wherein learning could take place.

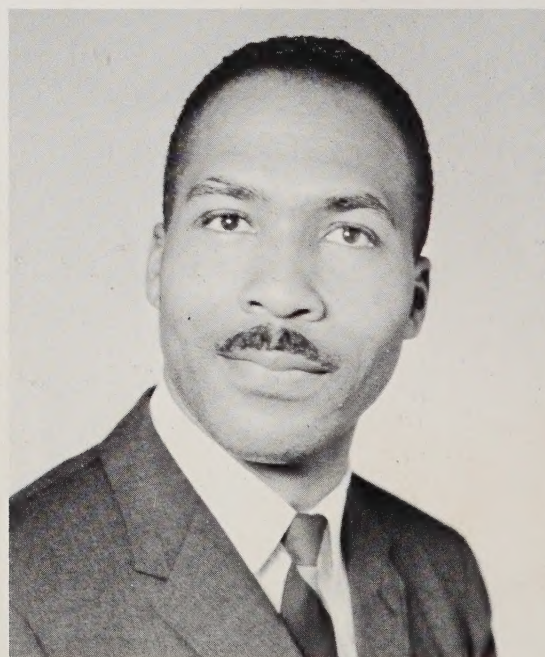

We now take this opportunity to express in a little, but meaningful way, our great admiration and respect for her and also our gratitude.

We wish for her many enjoyable years of retirement.

Assembling the JOHISCO was quite a job for the staff. It was a rich and varied experience which will be long remembered. We worked hard, played some, worked again, then relaxed.

Our burden was made lighter by so many people who lent a helping hand. Among this number are our faithful patrons and advertisers, who responded so nicely to our financial requests; the administration and faculty who lent encouragement and had patience with us in our venture; the photographers and their assistants and last but not least the student body who never tired of posing. Each did his share for which we are most grateful.

Presently it's over, yet never forgotten.
